

The Lyon College Disc Golf Course

Lyon's homegrown disc golf course is an object based course that winds through the picturesque Lyon campus. Playing all 18 holes takes the visitor on a tour of the majority of campus. The originators of the course are currently unknown although much of the current course and this document were created and organized by Dr. Derek McDowell, a former Chemistry professor at Lyon. The course was rerouted to accommodate the replacement of the Smith Science building with the Derby Center for Science and Math in 2003/4 by Bob Gregerson, Dave Thomas, and Tim Lindblom, all current Biology professors at Lyon.
